Hope For Wildlife

Is Seeking Volunteers

Dartmouth, Nova Scotia, 13.10.2026, 23:45 Time

Brian MacKenzie Teepell/USPA 24 News - SOURCE: Hope For Wild Life social media release.
"Do you like helping wildlife? Do you like driving? Why not do both?! Hope For Wildlife is seeking volunteers for various positions."

"We rescue and transport almost 7,000 animals a year, from all over the province, and to do that we rely on a team of dedicated volunteers who can get the animals to us. To keep the response times low and give the best possible chance for our wildlife to get back home, it takes a lot of us!"

"Maybe you've always wanted to help out, but don't live near us? Well, perhaps now you can! We don't just have a location in Seaforth, we have drop-offs outside Wolfville, Bridgewater, and in Cape Breton, too!"

"It's farily easy to get started. Transport drivers pick up animals that are already contained by the public and bring them to us. Or maybe drive animals from a drop-off facility to our hospital in Seaforth. Wildlife rescuers are also needed! You will be part of a team responsible for coordinating the capture and transport of wildlife."

"You must hold a valid driver’s license and have access to a vehicle."
